Mr. Allan Dulles
Central Intelligence Agency
2430 E Street, North Bldg.
Washington, D. C.

Dear Mr. Dulles;

I take the liberty of writing you because of your years of experience in law and international relations. At present I am awaiting the completion of security check for appointment in the State Department's Information and Educational Exchange Program. However, I am somewhat doubtful that I can put to best use the work I have been doing in the past few years in any position to which I might be appointed in that program.

My recent interests have been international law and philosophy of law; specifically to determine the nature of law in order to understand how it can better be used in the interest of world peace.

My present thought is that, possibly, in work such as information evaluation I might be of more service to the cause of freedom working for Central Intelligence than in the program for which I am presently being considered in the State Department. I am enclosing a copy of my Curriculum Vitae. The only thing that should be added is a paper for this past September's Conference on Science, Philosophy and Religion, which will appear in their symposium volume. The year's topic was "Foundations of World Organization."

I presume to bother you with this matter because of the difficulty of piercing the welter of routine in normal personnel channels. Should Central Intelligence be interested in me, the progress of my security check can, no doubt, be determined through Miss Frances A. Fortis in the State Department.

Sincerely yours,
